

Eddie Landau, PhD, is a consultant clinical and medical psychologist working at the Graub CF Center, Institute of Pulmonology at the Schneider Children's Medical Center (SCMC), Israel. Eddie's clinical activities involve a wide range of psychotherapeutic approaches and diagnostic work with children and adults with CF and their families. In addition, Eddie works closely with the multi-disciplinary staff in the clinic, helping to improve medical compliance with the patients and to develop better tools to cope with chronic illness in the family.

Research projects include clinical adherence interventions, as well as assessing mental health and coping strategies. Eddie has a private psychotherapy practice in Tel Aviv working with adults, children and couples. She is also a qualified yoga teacher and is actively involved in developing and integrating yoga practices in psychological treatment. Eddie is an active member of the European Cystic Fibrosis Society. She was a committee member on the European Psychosocial Special Interest Group. She is currently co-chair of the ECFS Mental Health Working Group.